Guide to the Index

This second supplement to The Index to the Baum Bugle covers the sixty issues in Volumes 50–68, published between 2006 and 2025.

Index entries are provided for previously unpublished materials, including research articles, memoirs and memorials, checklists, reviews, and event reports. Significant reprints are included when the originals are not reasonably accessible. Index entries are not provided for the contents of the "Oz and Ends" / "Bugle Bulletin" regular department (featuring short summaries of Oz news), the "Oz in the News" regular department (having capsule summaries of Oz news from other publications), letters from the Bugle editor and Oz Club president, calendars, and other small notices.

Index entries are provided for select images, generally including only those not available from other sources (e.g., publicity photos for an author or illustrations from a book that is the subject of an article are not indexed). Not indexed are images strongly associated with the title or subjects of the accompanying article (e.g., advertisements for Return to Oz in an article about that film, or photos of Frank Kramer in a biography of that artist). Group photos from events are not indexed. Entries for images are included in the Subject Index and indicated by a citation in italics (see below).

This Index supplement is divided into five sections:

The AUTHOR INDEX lists the authors of articles published in the Bugle, including research articles, memoirs, memorials, reviews, event reports, and quizzes. In cases when authors wrote under variant first names, they are consolidated under one (e.g., articles written by John Bell are under the entry "Bell, J. L."). When an author's surname changed, a cross reference is provided. Entries are alphabetized by last name. The Author Index does not include authors of separate publications; these are found in the Subject Index and Review Index. Some people appear as entries in more than one Index section (e.g., "Gardner, Martin" is an entry in the Author Index for the Bugle article "How the Oz Club Started" and an entry in the Subject Index for articles about him). Articles published anonymously but written by the editor are credited as such (if verified) in the Author Index.

The TITLE INDEX lists the titles of feature articles published in the Bugle; this section does not include reviews, reports on conventions and other events, or minor notices. Titles are also listed under the article author in the Author Index, reviews are listed in the Review Index, and event reports are listed in the Event Index. Entries are alphabetized by the first word of the article title, ignoring "a", "an", and "the" (even for foreign language titles) and are placed in quotation marks; titles starting with a number are ordered as if the number is spelled-out (e.g. "100th …" as "One …").

If an article was previously published outside of the Bugle, the title is followed by [reprint]. For contributions to a regular or occasional Bugle series, that series title usually appears after the article title (e.g., "It's Not Easy Being Green" ["Adventures in Oz"], "Vintage Wizard of Oz Housewares" ["The Oz Collector"], and "Reviews of The Road to Oz" ["Oz Under Scrutiny"]). When only a series title was used, that is the title for the entry.

The REVIEW INDEX collects reviews published in the Bugle. Although some issues of the Bugle gave titles to reviews, entries in the Index are listed only by the title of the work being reviewed. Entries for reviews are also listed under the review author (but not the author of the work reviewed) in the Author Index.

Book reviews include books, comic books, magazines, and other printed text works (found in "The Oz Bookshelf" or "The Bugle Review" regular department of most issues). These reviews are listed alphabetically by publication title, followed by the author, illustrator, publisher, and publication year. Reprints are noted. Entries are labeled as [book review].

Audio and video reviews include albums, audio recordings, podcasts, films, TV shows and TV movies, video recordings, and video games (found in the "The Oz Screening Room," "The Oz Record Shelf," "MultimediOz," or "The Bugle Review" departments). These reviews are listed alphabetically by title of the recording, followed by the publisher, year, and format. Re-releases are noted. Entries are labeled as [audio review] or [video review].

Game reviews include both video games and physical games such as board games and cards. Entries are labeled as [game review] or [video game review].

Theater reviews include plays, musicals, dance works, musical concerts, and other live performances (found in "Oz Behind the Footlights" or "Oz in the Arts" department of many issues). These reviews are listed alphabetically by the title of the performed work, followed by the production company name, location, and date. The entry is labeled as [theater review].

An Appendix collects entries for reviews of foreign-language works.

The EVENT REPORT INDEX collects reports published in the Bugle about Oz Club conventions, annual and occasional community festivals, academic conferences, museum exhibits, and other types of parties, ceremonies, and events. Although the Bugle used titles for some event reports, entries for reports in the Index are listed alphabetically by the event name; for cases when annual event names changed, entries usually are gathered under the most recent name. Event reports are also listed under the report author in the Author Index and entries are labeled as [report].

The SUBJECT INDEX lists the subjects of articles published in the Bugle and includes:

People. Entries include the names of significant people, alphabetized by last name and usually followed by their principal role (e.g., author, illustrator, actor, etc.) in parentheses. Citations are provided for articles about, works of, memorial of, and photos of these people. In cases when people also wrote an article published in the Bugle, their name is included in the Author Index with entries for those articles.

Works. Entries include the titles of significant publications, films, etc., with the year and format in parentheses, such as The Road to Oz (1909 book by LFB) and The Wizard of Oz (1939 MGM film). Works described only in reviews are not included here; they are in the Review Index. Entries are alphabetized by the first word of the work title, ignoring "a", "an", and "the" (even for foreign language titles).

Organizations. Entries are alphabetized by name of significant organizations (publishers, clubs, companies, etc.) followed by their city and state in parentheses. Organization names associated with publications, theater works, and events are included under those entries and not listed separately unless the organization is the subject of an article.

Places. A few places significant to the history of Baum and Oz (e.g., "Chittenango, NY" and "Ozcot") have entries. In most cases, places are included with entries for organizations, e.g., "Judy Garland Museum (Grand Rapids, MN)"

Characters and Fictional Places. Some fictional characters and places from the Oz series and related works have entries. Entries for characters are alphabetized by first name, such as "Dorothy Gale (character)" and "Ozma (character)." Note that this is a select listing of only those characters or places receiving significant attention in an article. Characters and places associated with only one work are found as subheadings under that work (e.g., articles about the Tottenhots listed under "The Patchwork Girl of Oz (1913 book by LFB)".

Topics. Entries are included for select themes and topics addressed in articles, such as "Geography of Oz and surrounding lands," "Oz fans," "Libraries," "Brazil," and "Collecting."

The selection of entries for the Subject Index admittedly is subjective. The emphasis is on keywords to assist researchers in finding articles addressing subjects not indicated by the title alone.

Citations are given as "year:issue:page(s)" (e.g., 2024:Winter:28-30 refers to the article on pages 28 through 30 in the Winter 2024 issue). Citations in italics are for images.

*The Autumn 2009 issue was erroneously labeled "Summer 2009" on the front cover and "Spring 2009" in the footer.

This supplement is dedicated in memory of whose painstaking work to maintain the Index provided invaluable help to Baum Bugle editors. Thank you, Dick, for shining light on our journal.

Assistance from Jane Albright, Marc Berezin, Sarah Crotzer, Sean Duffley, Peter Hanff, and Bill Thompson is greatly appreciated. Please forward corrections to Scott Cummings, c/o feedback@ozclub.org.
